Home Diagnostics and Analysis

We are Home Experts

You go to a professional doctor to have a periodic physical exam and diagnostics, right? Let us do a physical exam on your house! When was the last time your house was professionally checked by a home expert?

Having your house operating at peak capacity helps increase the efficiency of your home, which saves you money and is better for the environment.

We are home experts. We have developed proven methodologies from inspecting hundreds of homes every year. Our inspectors have knowledge on all aspects of a house and can help you gain insight and understanding of your house.

When Has Your House Been Diagnosed?

A home diagnosis is a comprehensive “walk-through” type of inspection where the home owner and consultant walk through the house shoulder to shoulder. This “exam” is similar to a real estate inspection but is designed to educate and give more insight to you – the home owner about your house. The exam encompasses the structural systems, foundation, electrical, heating and cooling systems, plumbing systems, and other aspects of the house.

The consultant will help home owners understand the severity of any findings and potentially identify problems BEFORE they become a costly burden.
